Today, Sang Q's friend, Syn, brings you a new one.

The "Qinqin-type banknotes and farmers" recorded the story of the "Qian people slaying tigers to plow the fields" in the Qing Dynasty: "The tigers that have been acquired are bound by their feet, and they are eaten on a daily basis. The tiger did n't want to eat at first, but was hungry, and started to eat it a little bit .... and it is strong and sexual, without cattle laziness, and with cattle, so the farmer is not afraid of it, but he is also happy. "

After training, the Tigers can also eat the grain and farm. Today I will teach you how to tune a square piece of paper into a tiger.

Friendly reminder: The tiger is a protection animal and cannot be killed and abused like the ancients.

Recommended paper is 25-30cm two-color paper, the following real shooting starts:
