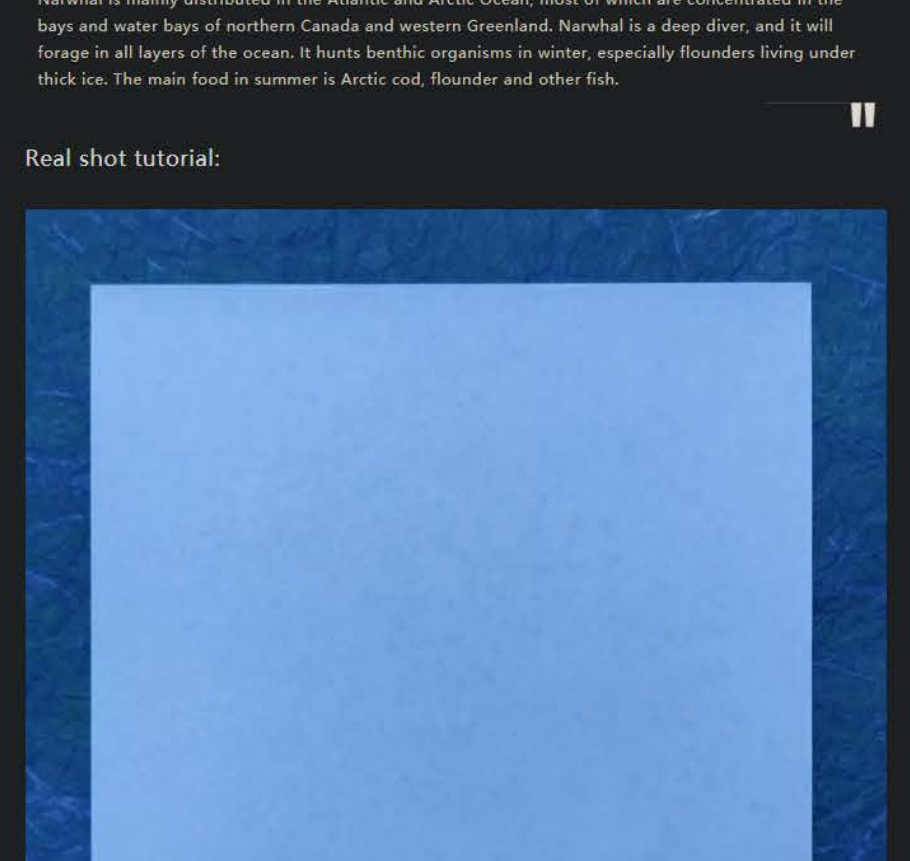
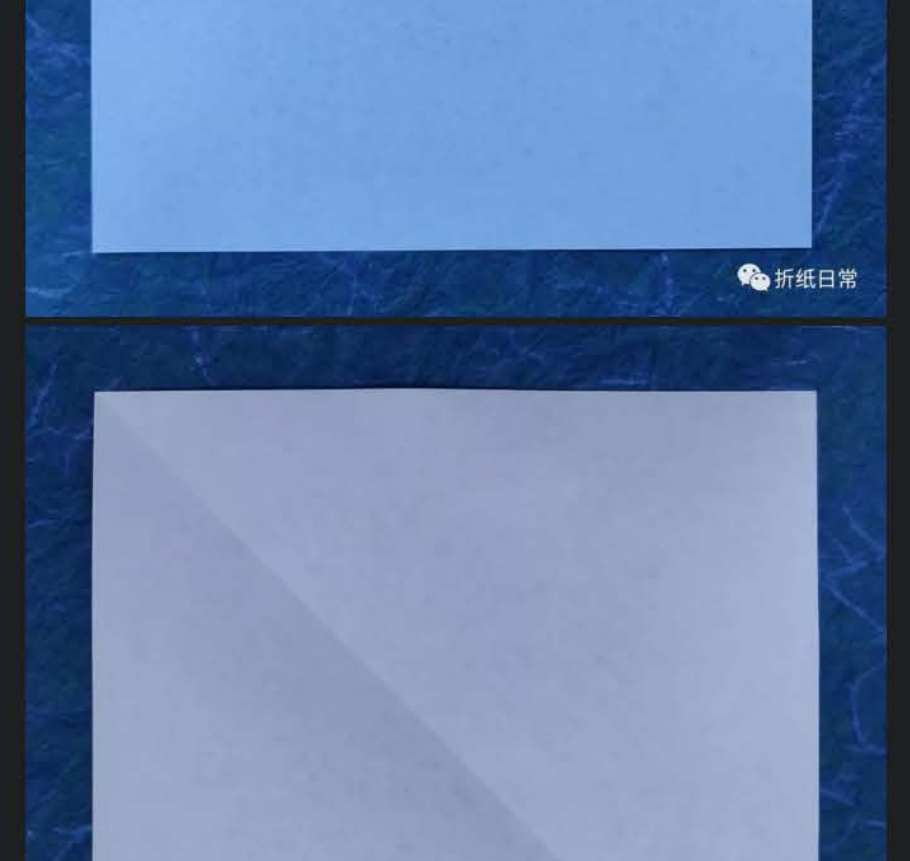
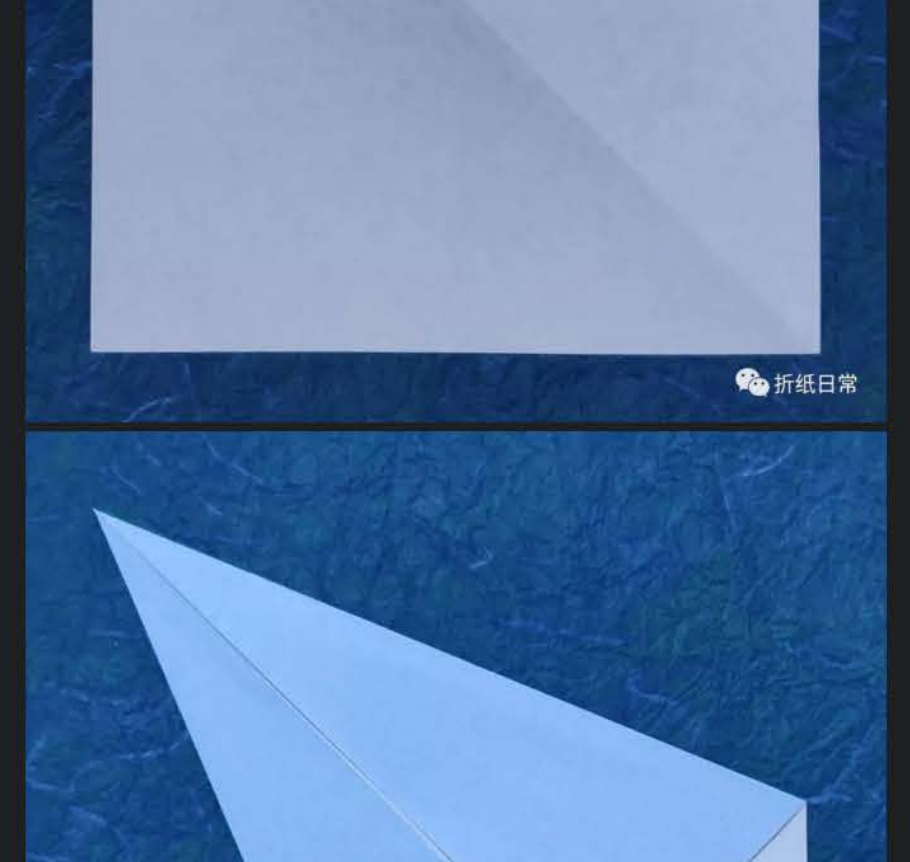
Today's Moyu brings everyone an original contribution by Zheyou—an narwhal designed by Yanyan Wang.

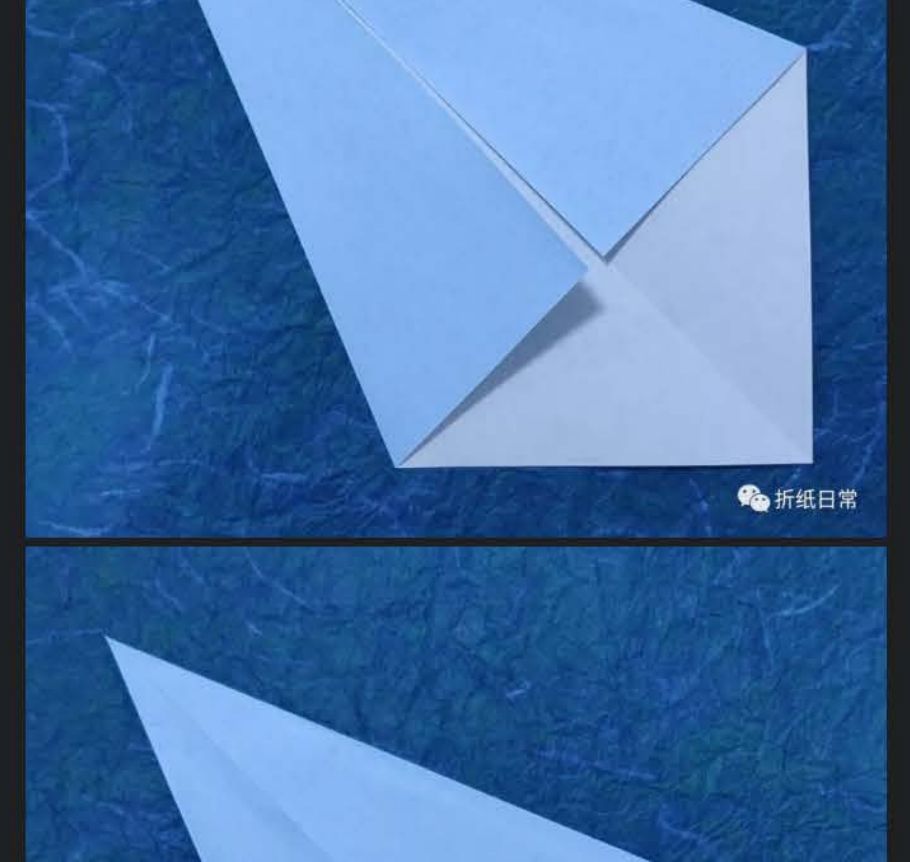
> The narwhal has no dorsal fins, a white belly, many dark brown or black spots on its back, and is generally 4 to 5 meters in length (excluding long "horns"). The male is slightly longer than the female. It is said that the narwhal is one of the prototypes of the unicorn. It is said that a "unicorn horn" that Elizabeth I used to buy for 10,000 pounds was actually the "horn" of the narwhal. Presumably the witty friends have noticed that the corners mentioned above have been quoted, so why is this? Because that's the fangs of a narwhal! Yes, there is nothing wrong with it. This tooth is a canine tooth protruding from the left upper jaw, which can reach 2 to 3 meters in length and spiral. The tooth is usually a symbol of its status in the family in addition to fighting. The thicker, the higher its status in the whale group. Narwhal is mainly distributed in the Atlantic and Arctic Ocean, most of which are concentrated in the bays and water bays of northern Canada and western Greenland. Narwhal is a deep diver, and it will forage in all layers of the ocean. It hunts benthic organisms in winter, especially flounders living under thick ice. The main food in summer is Arctic cod, flounder and other fish.

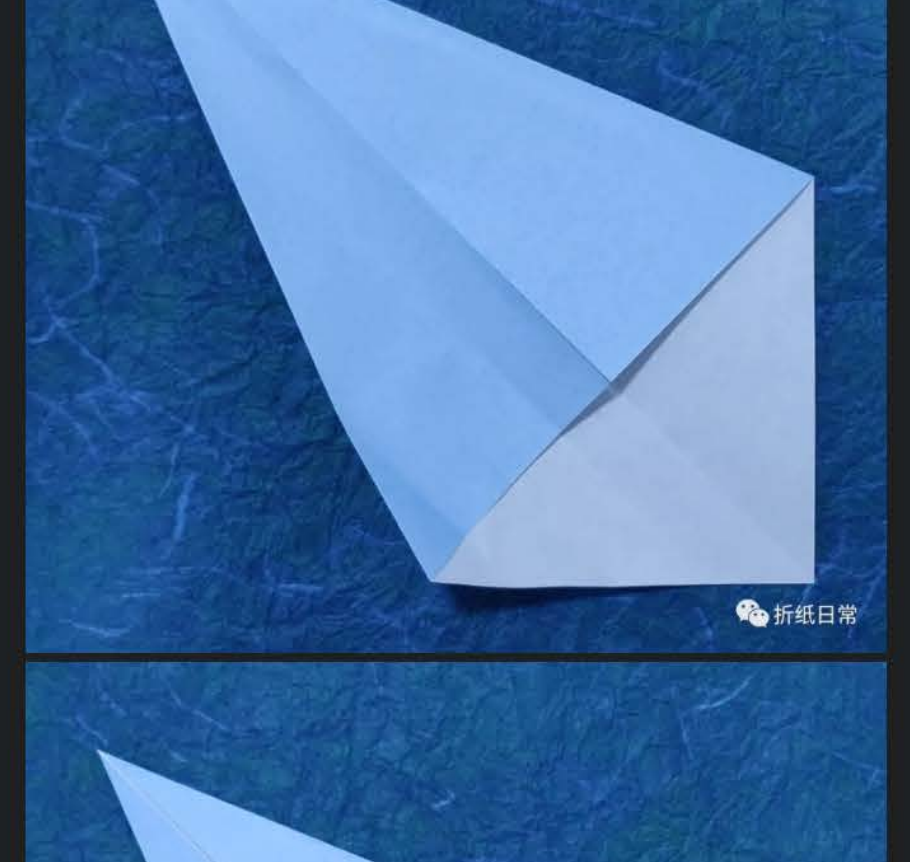
Real shot tutorial:

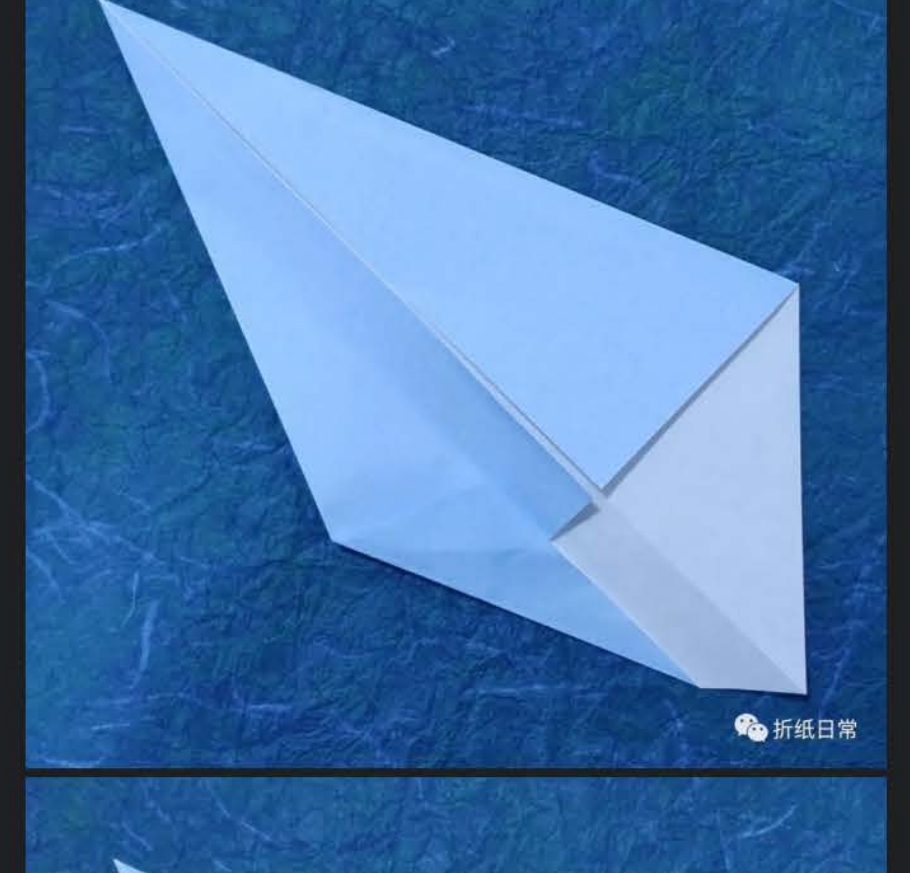


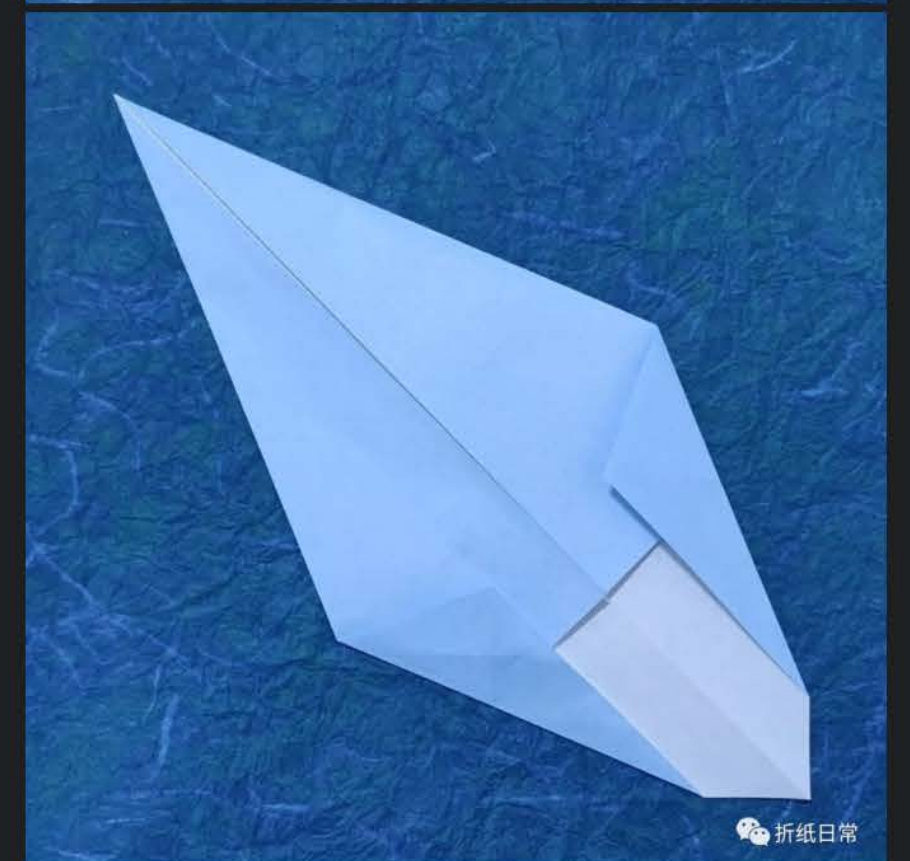


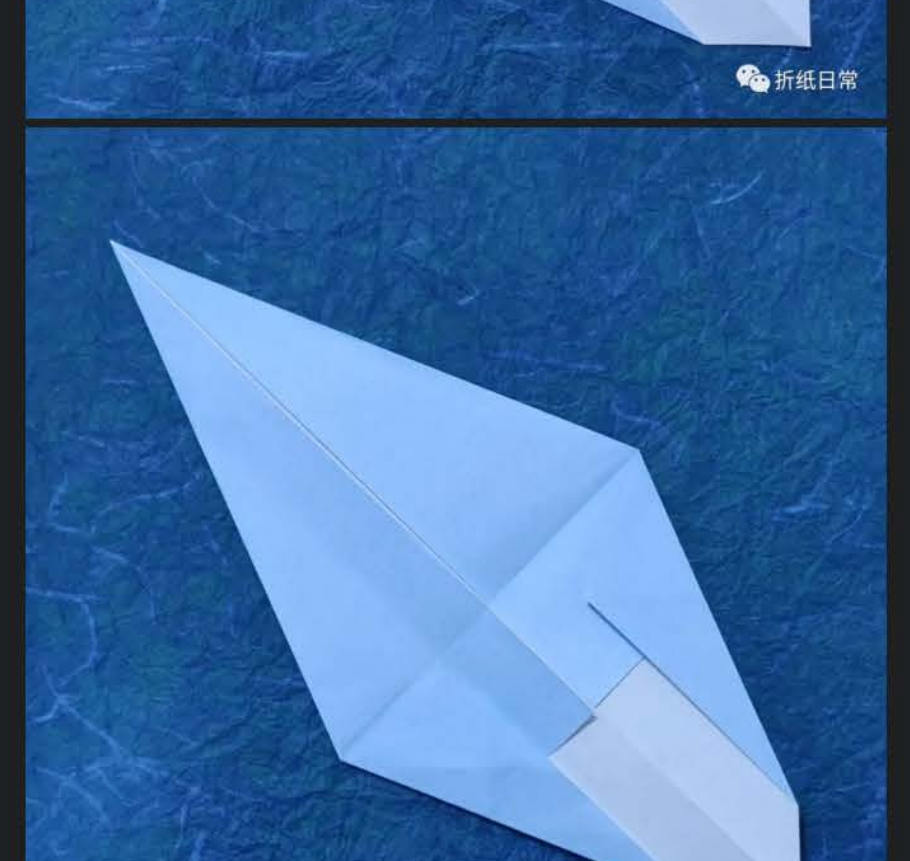


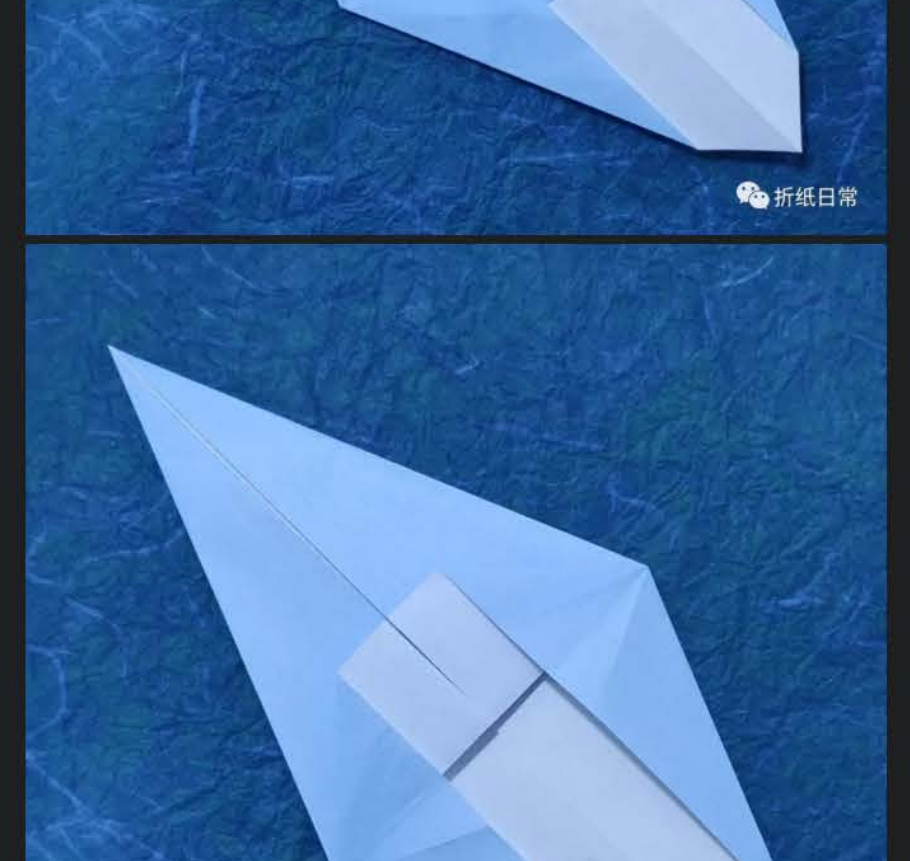


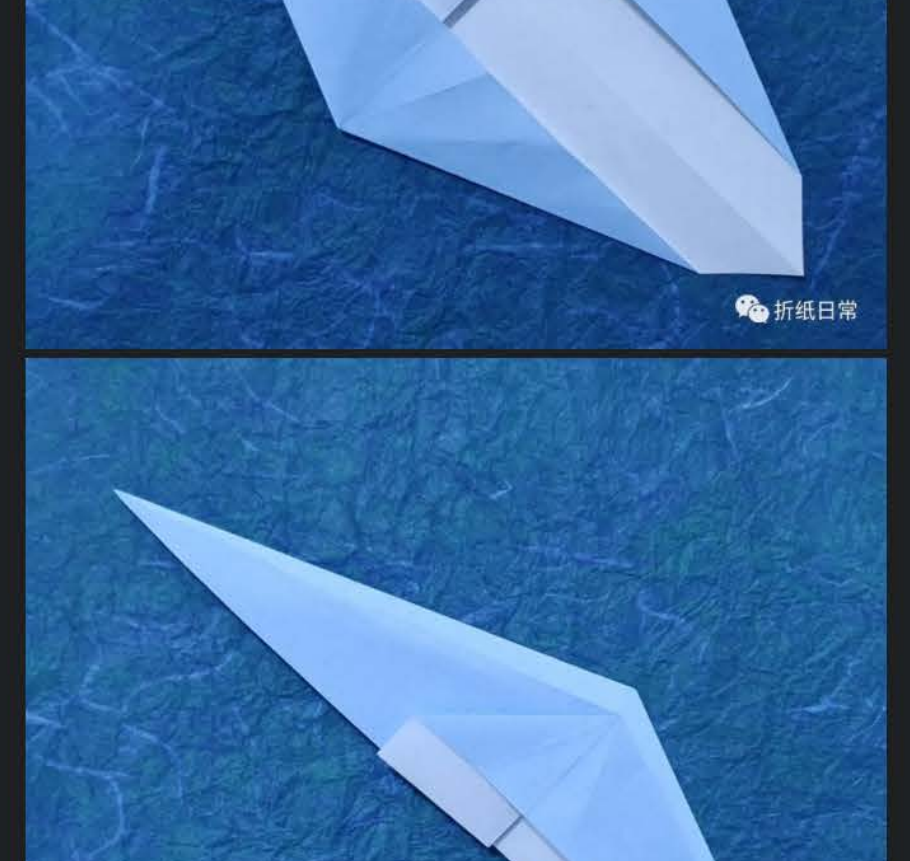


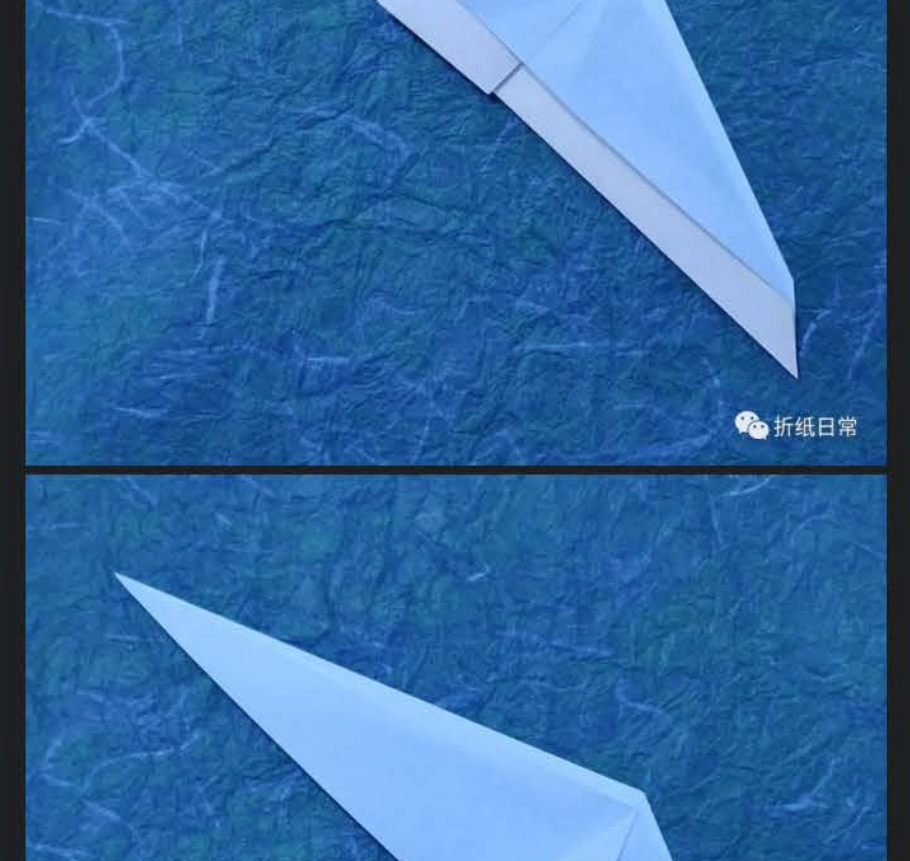


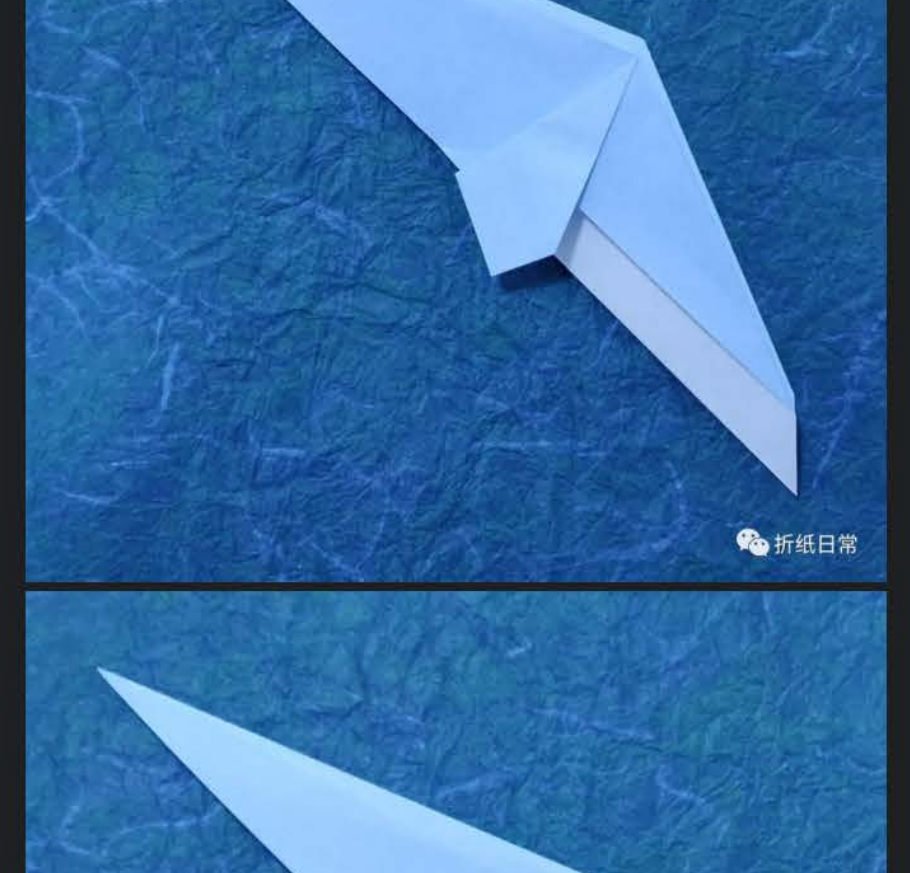


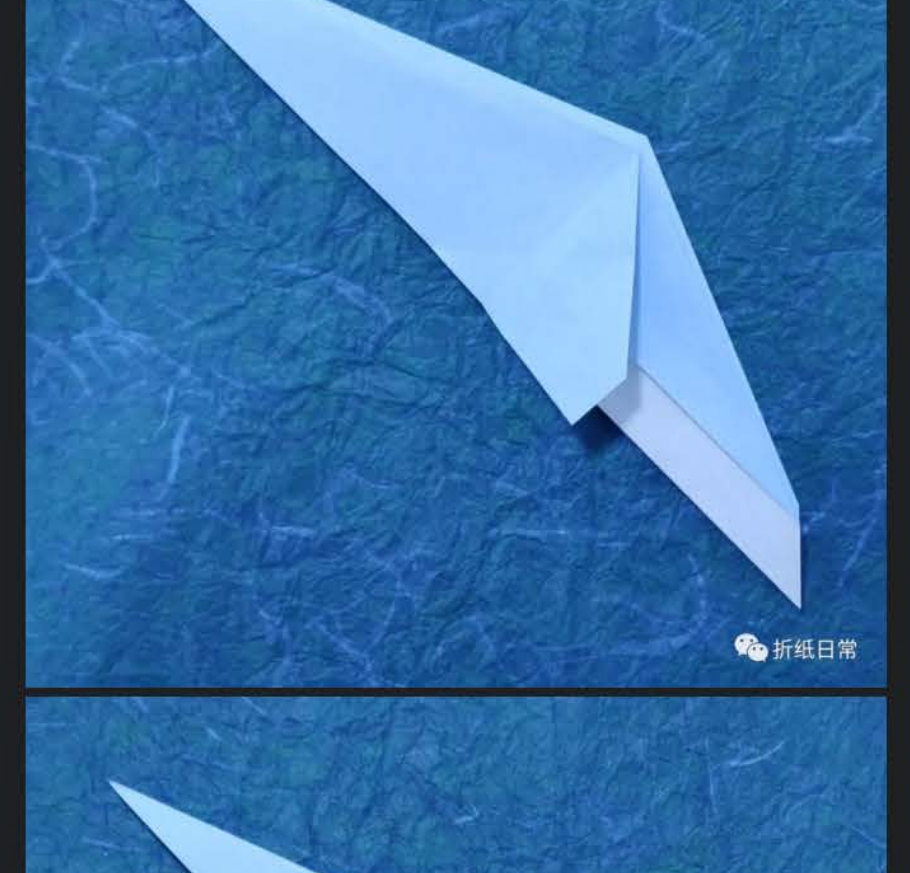


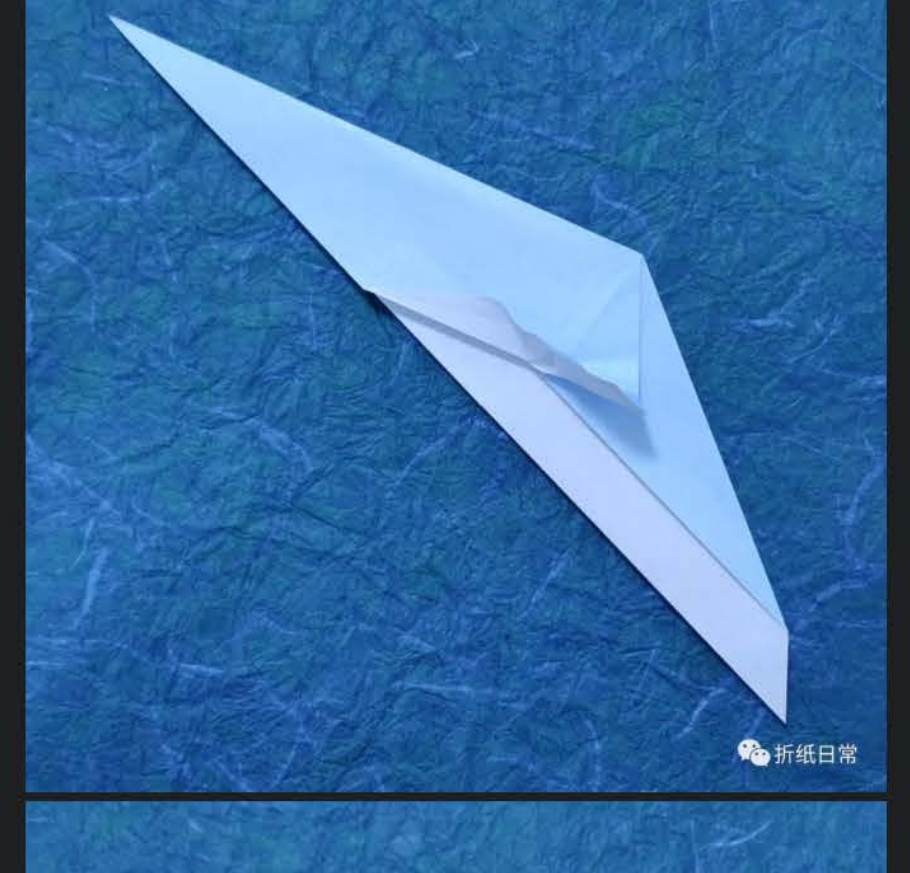


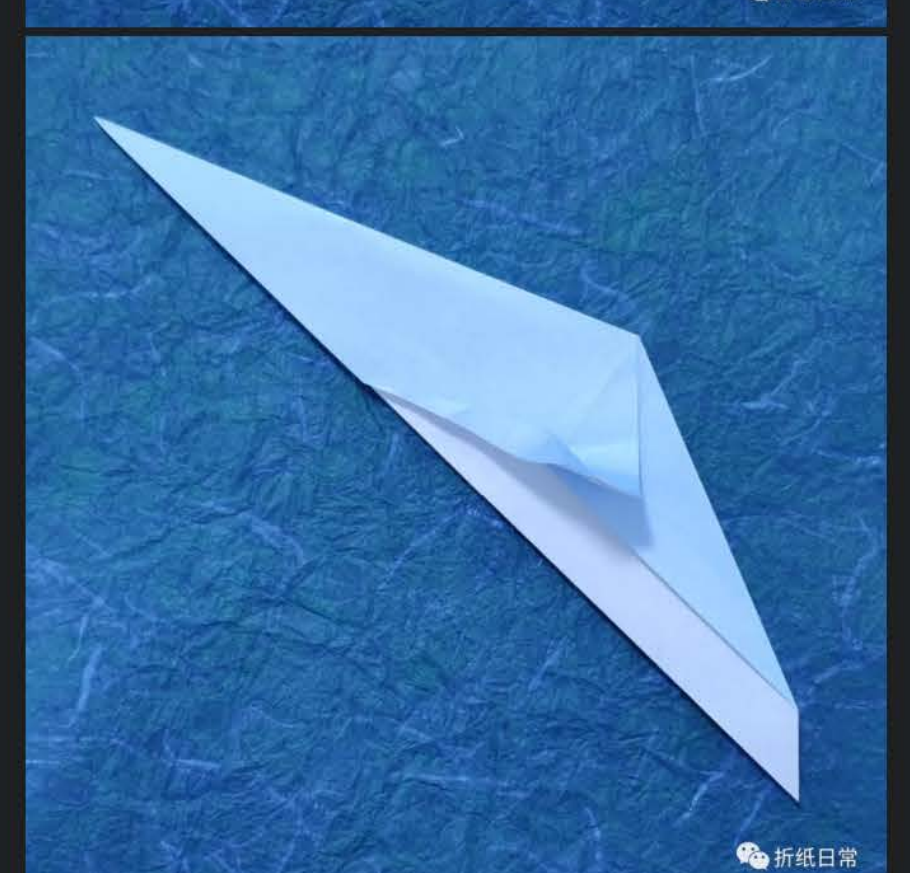


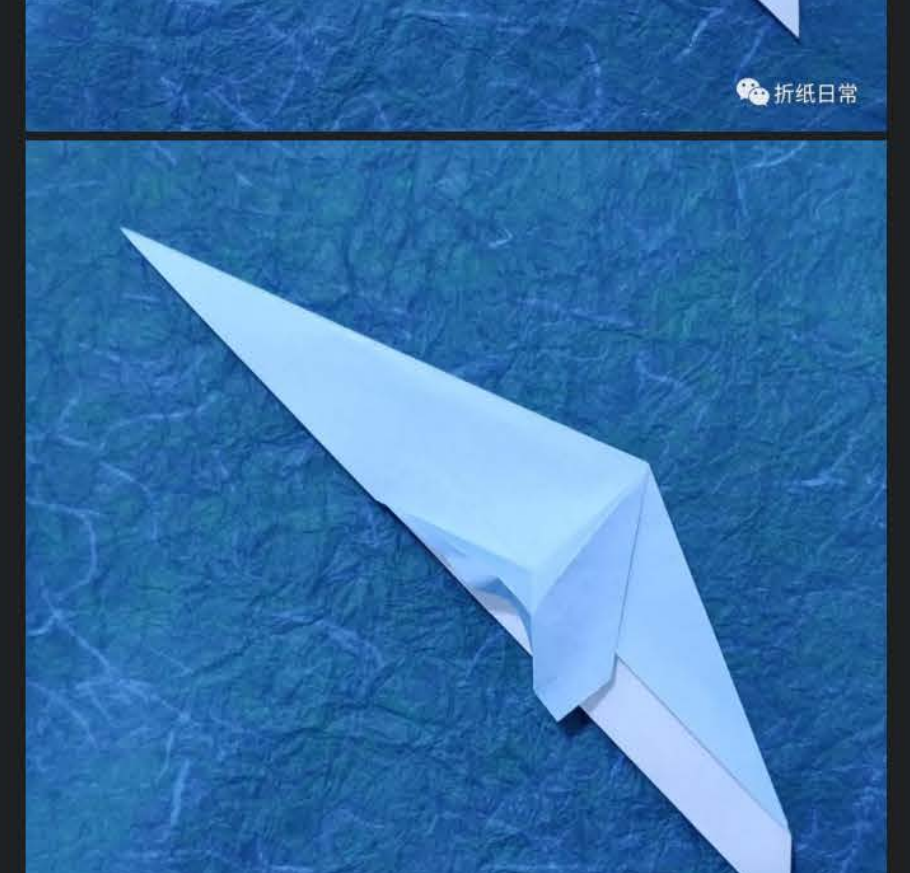


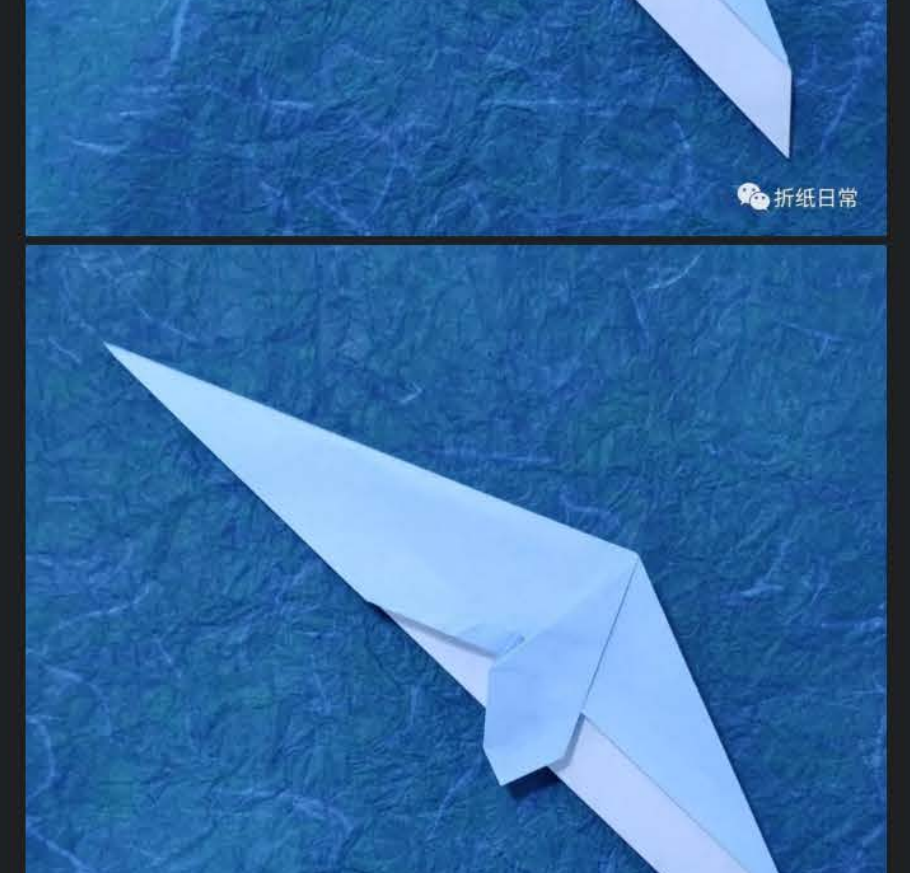


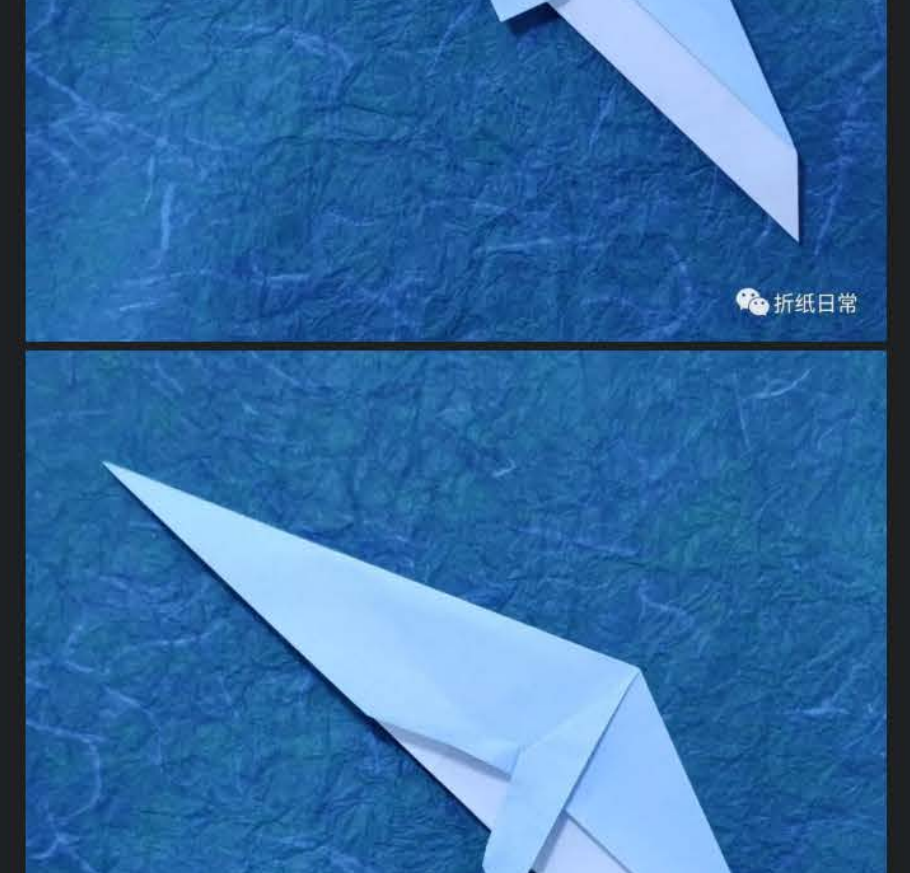


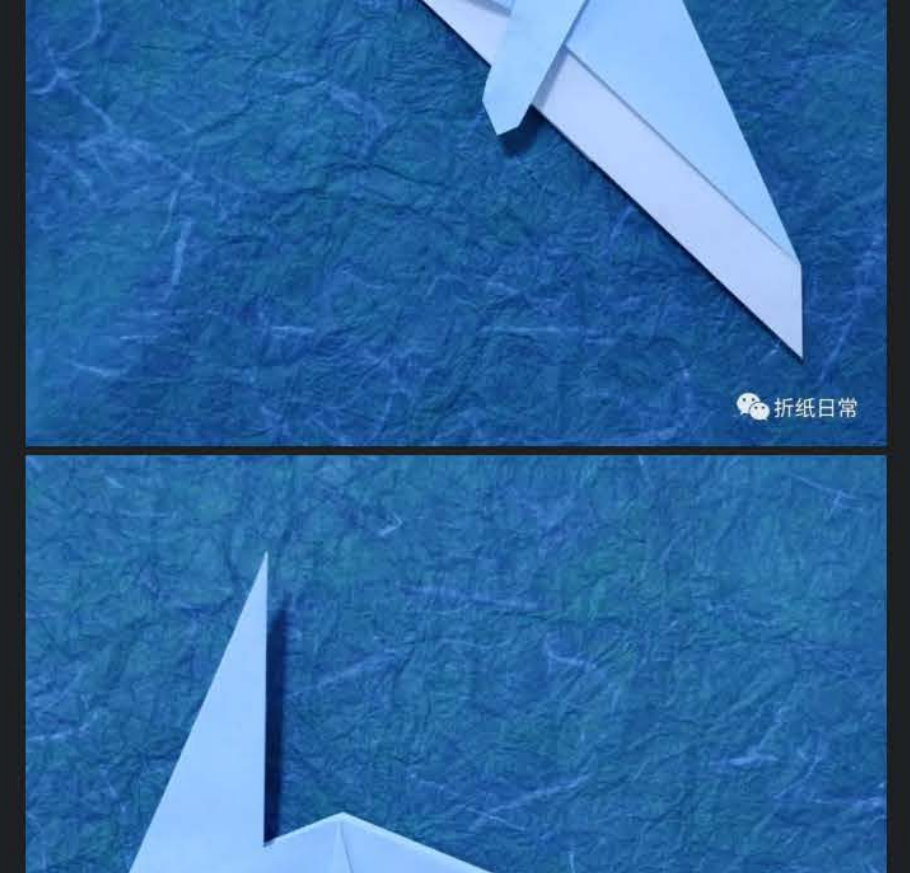


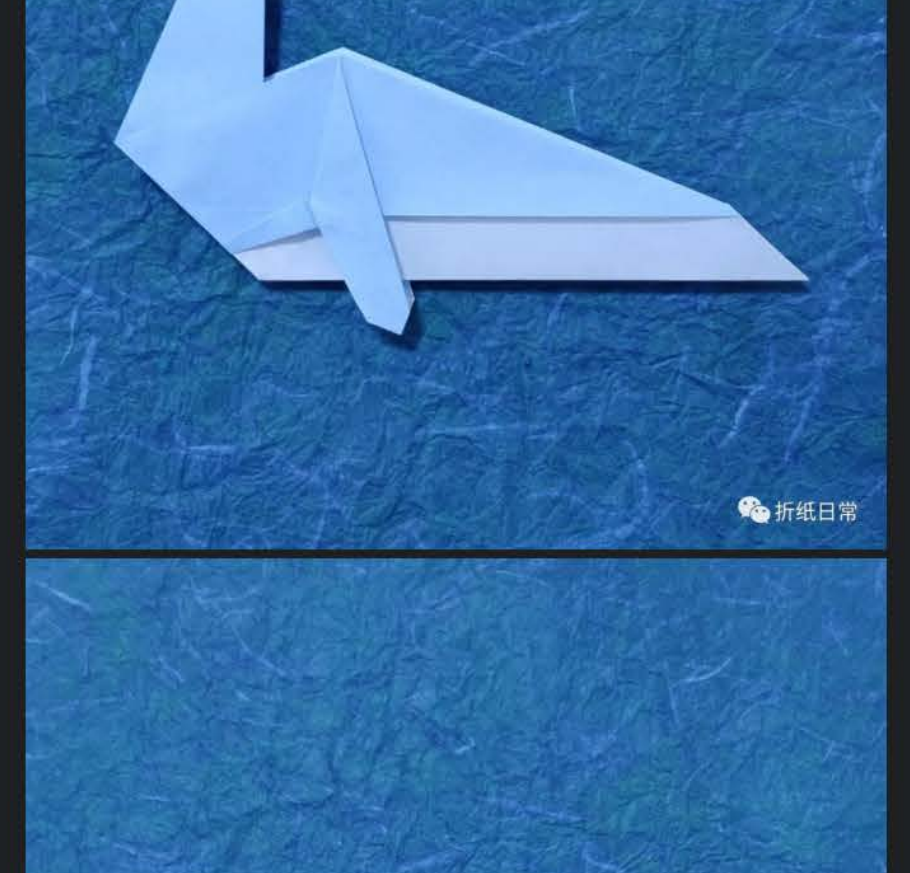


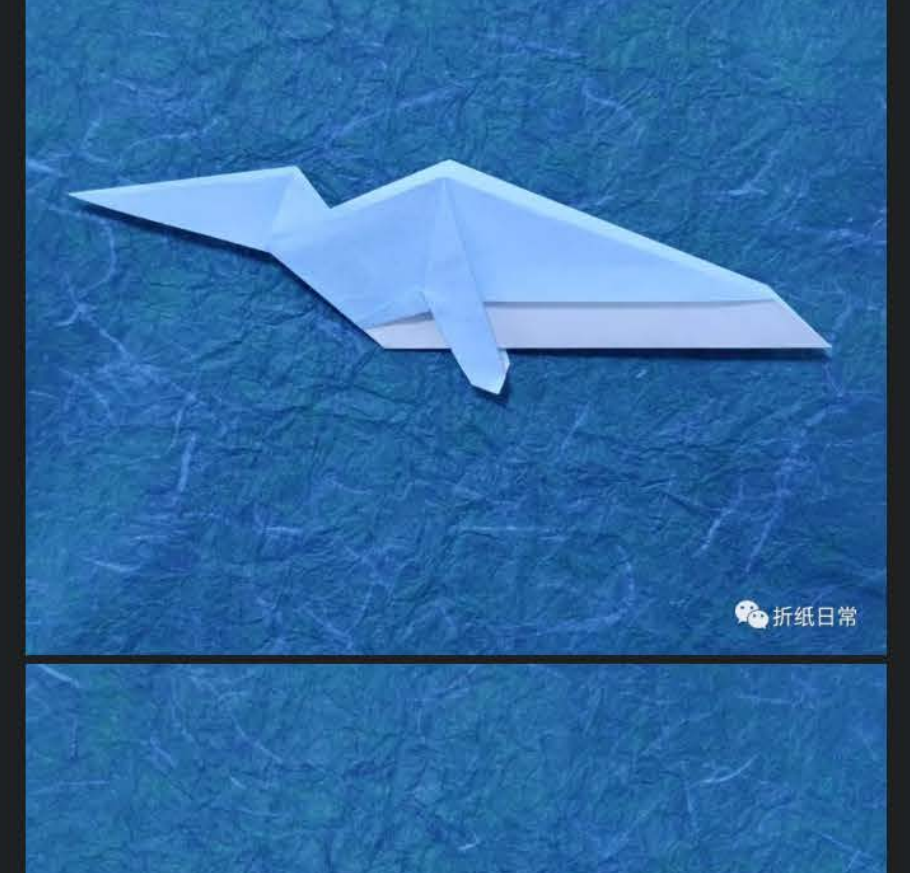


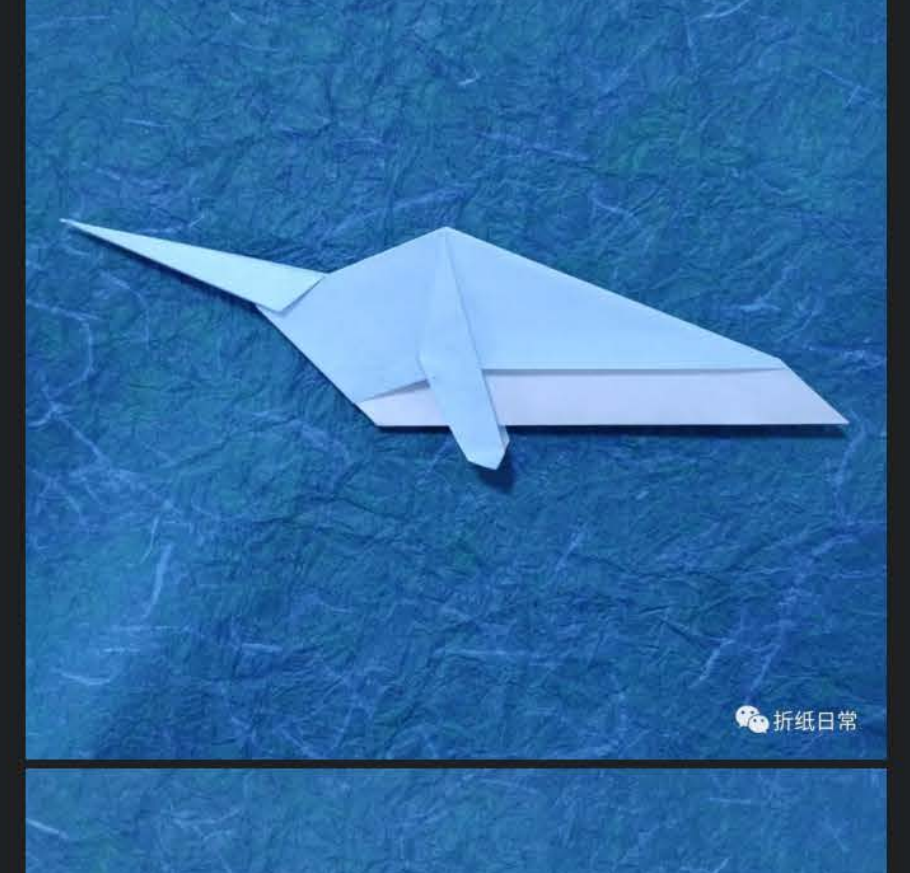


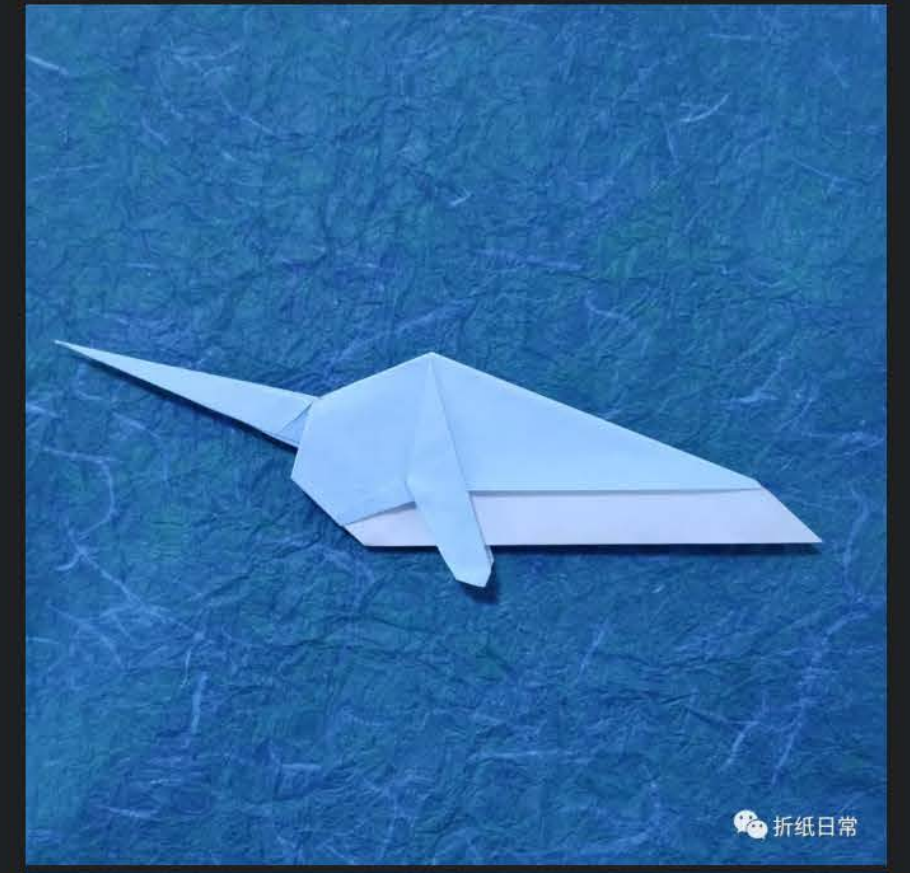


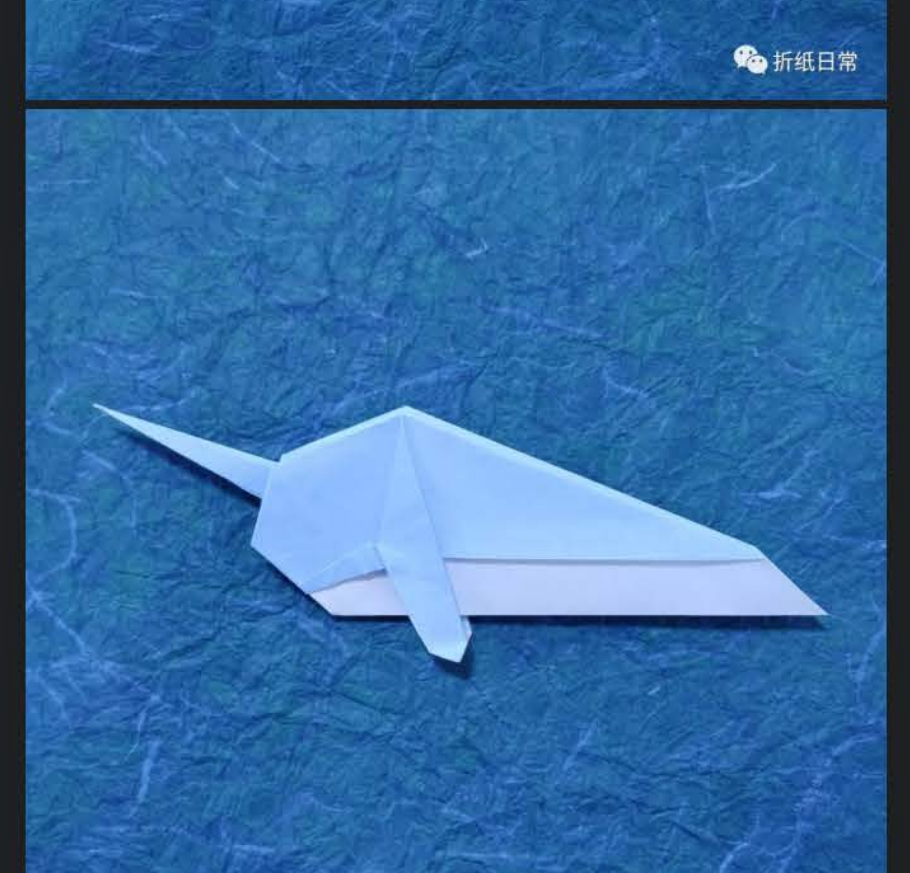


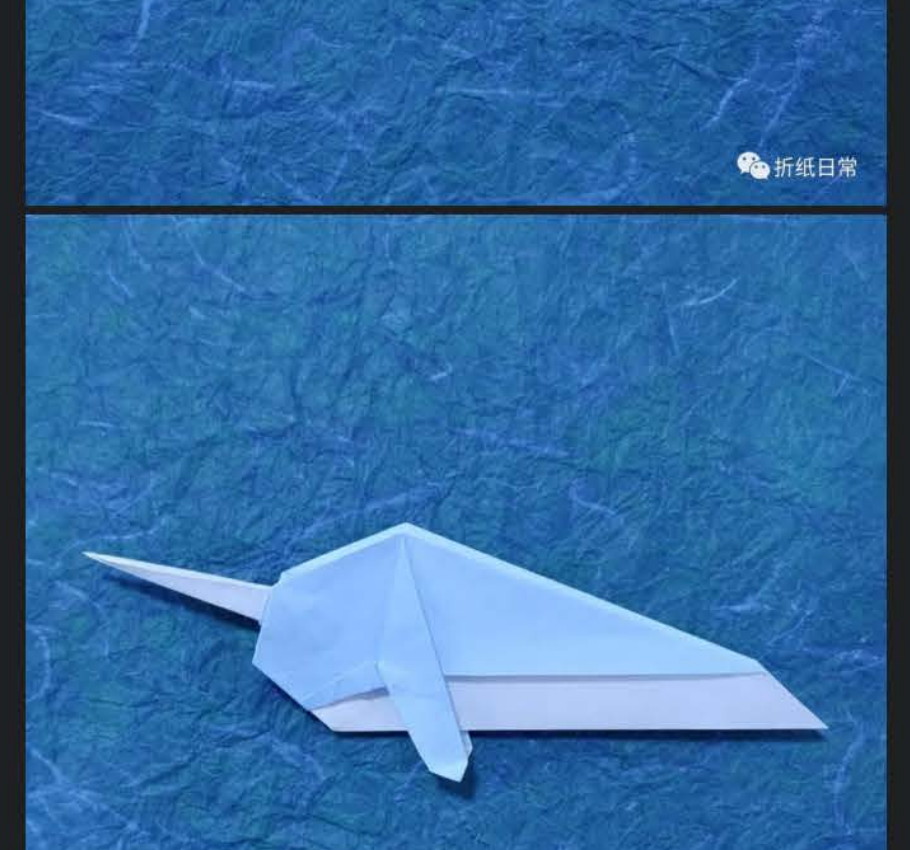


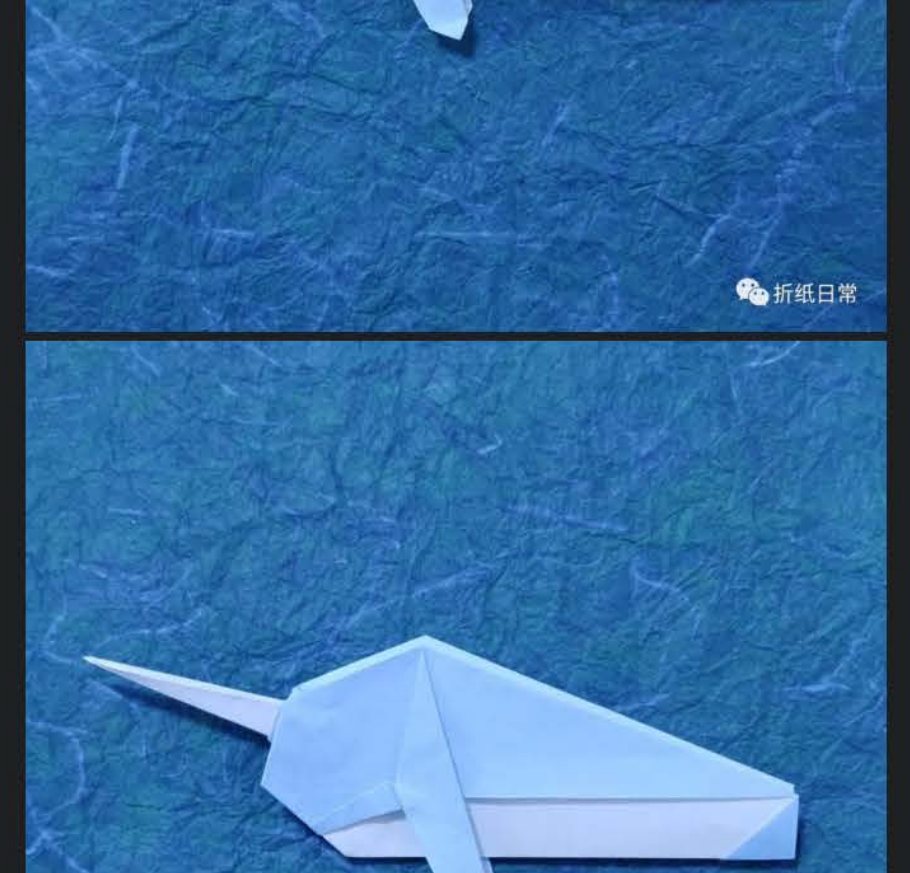


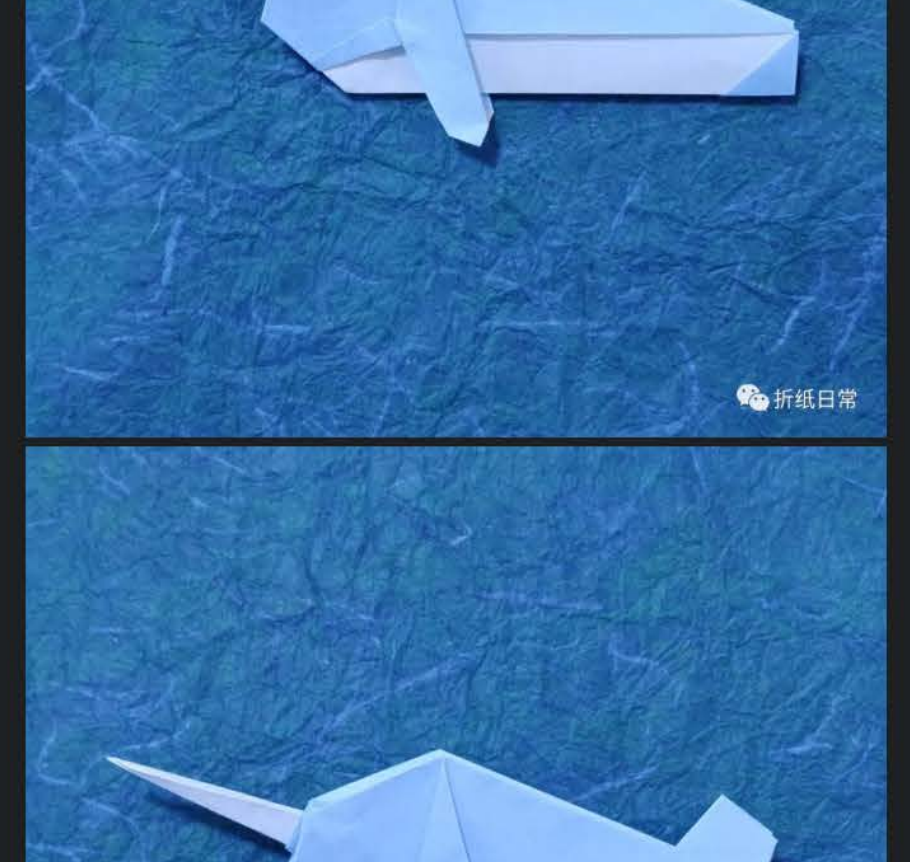


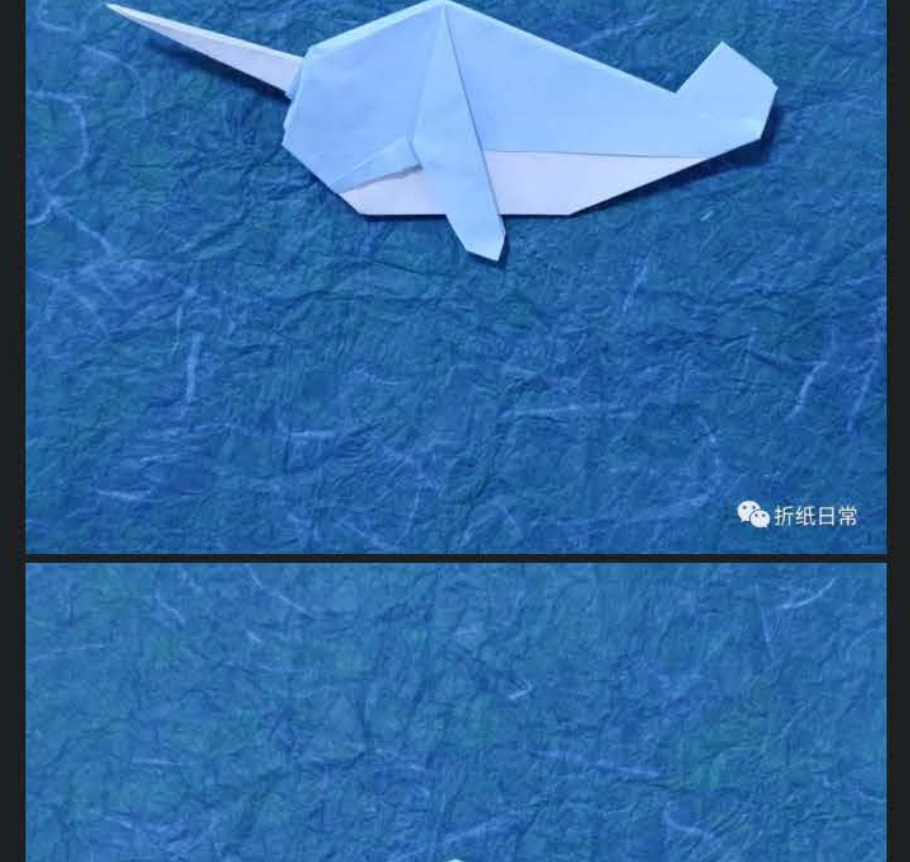


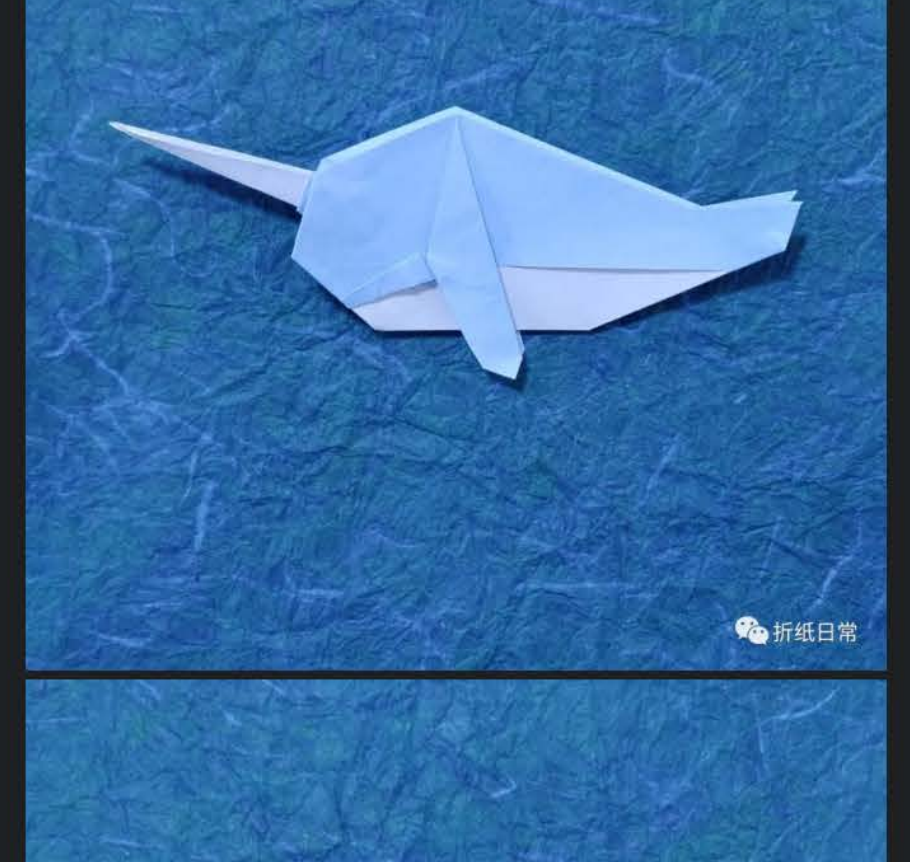


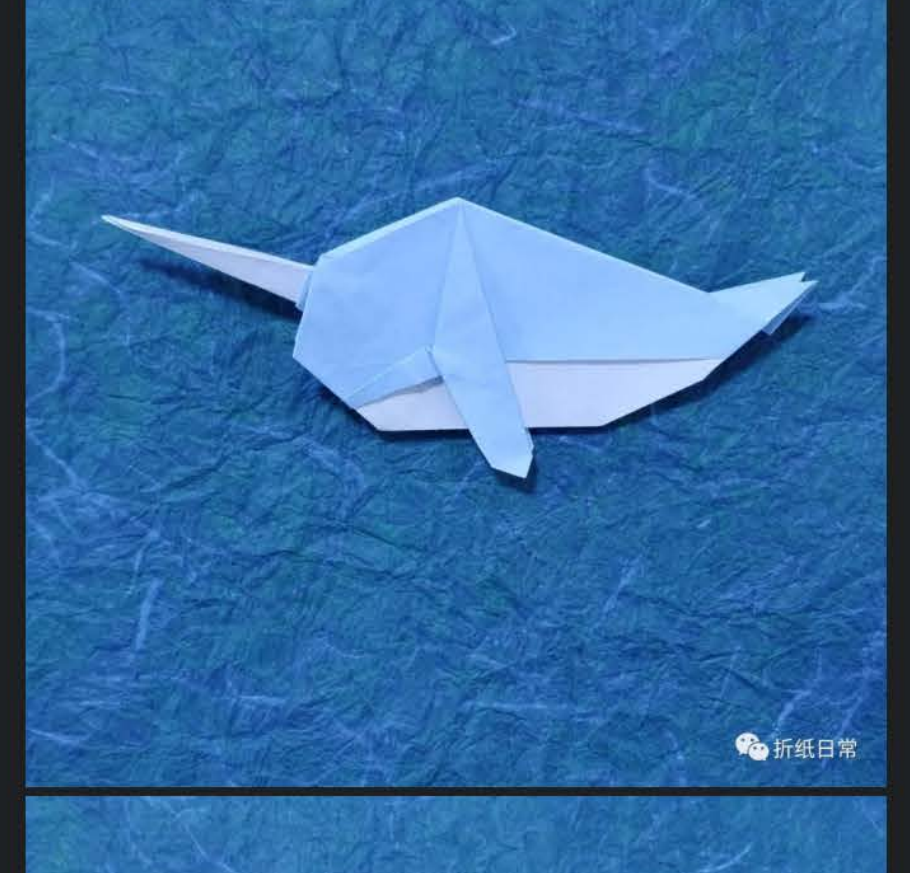


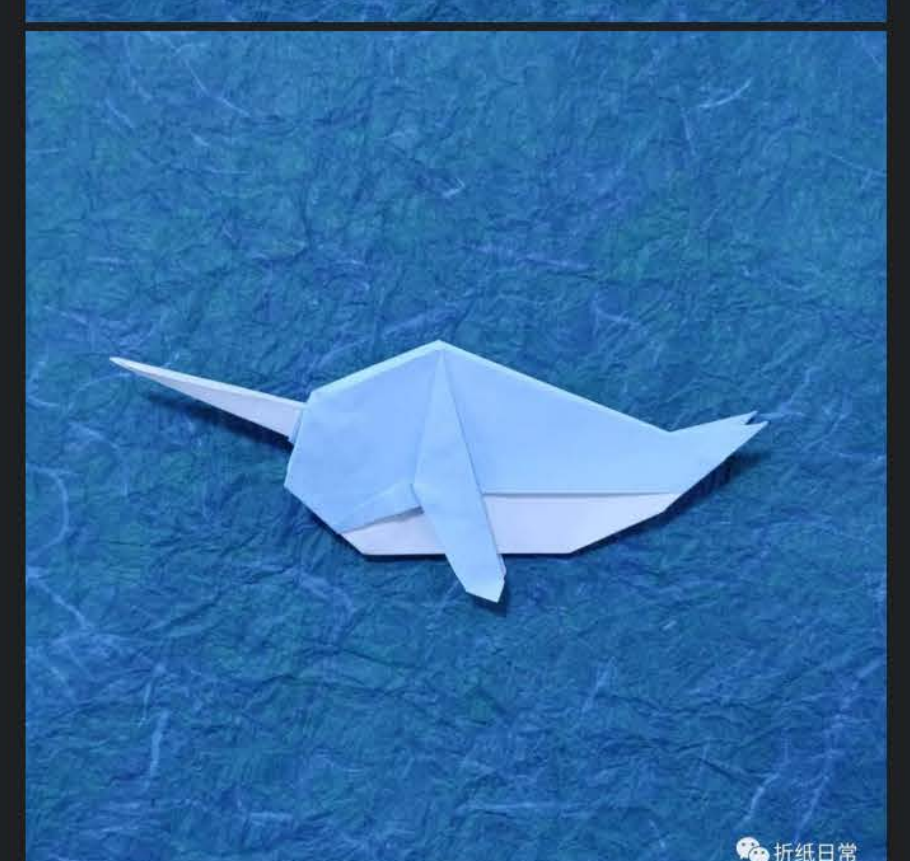


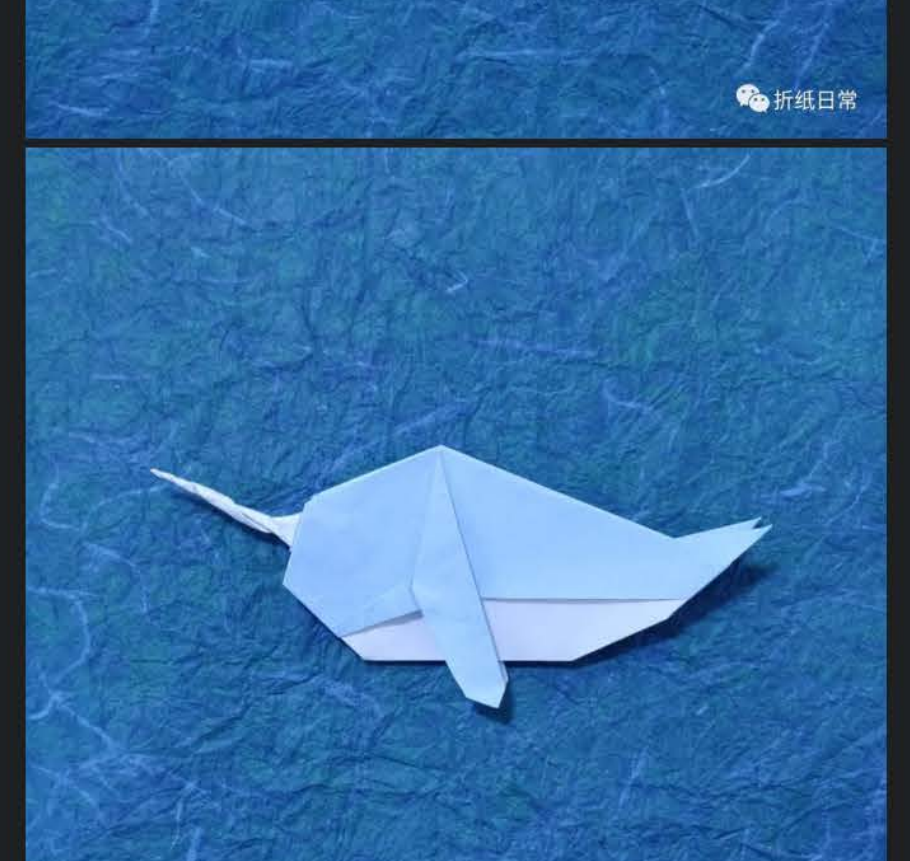


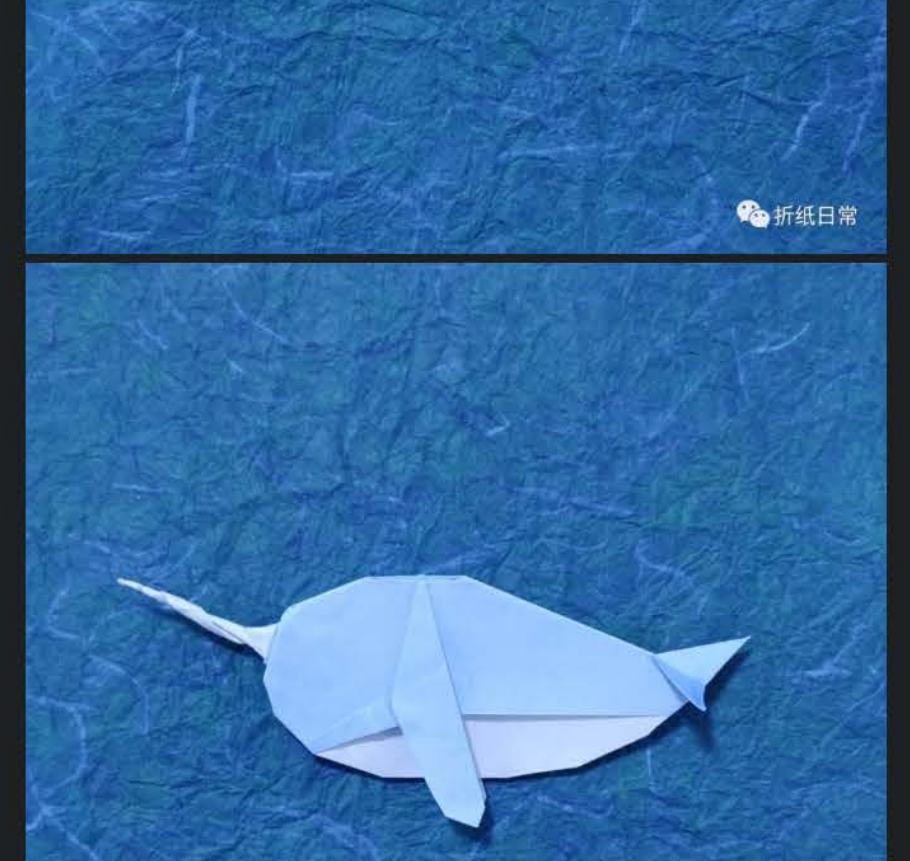


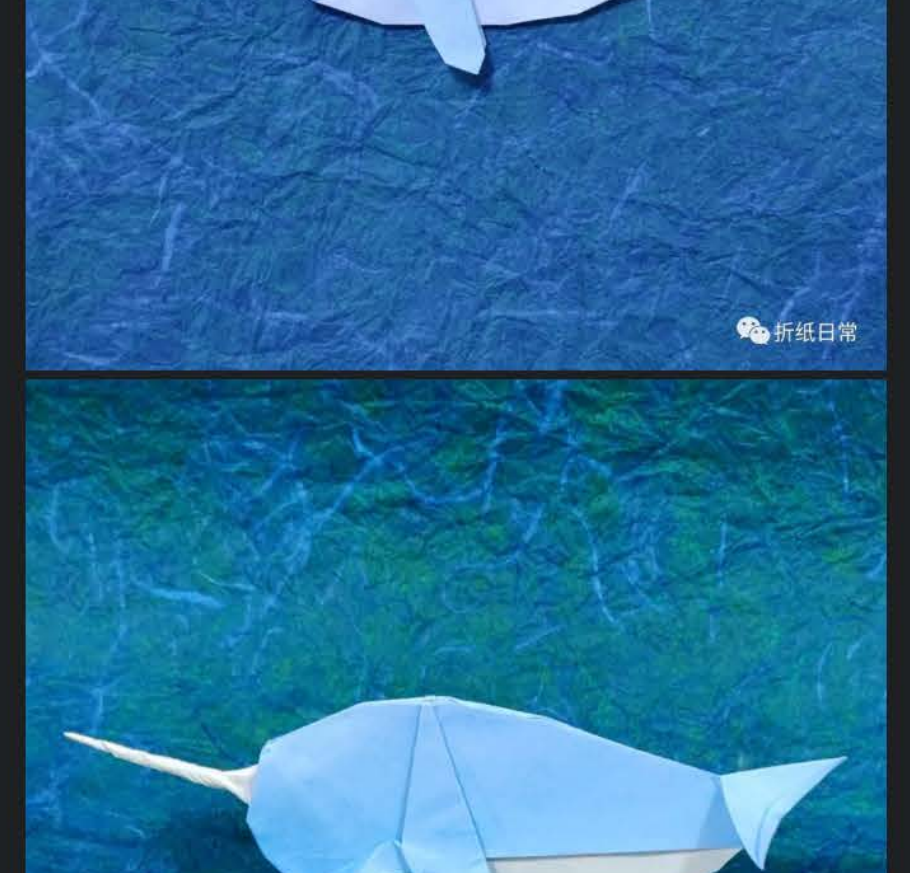


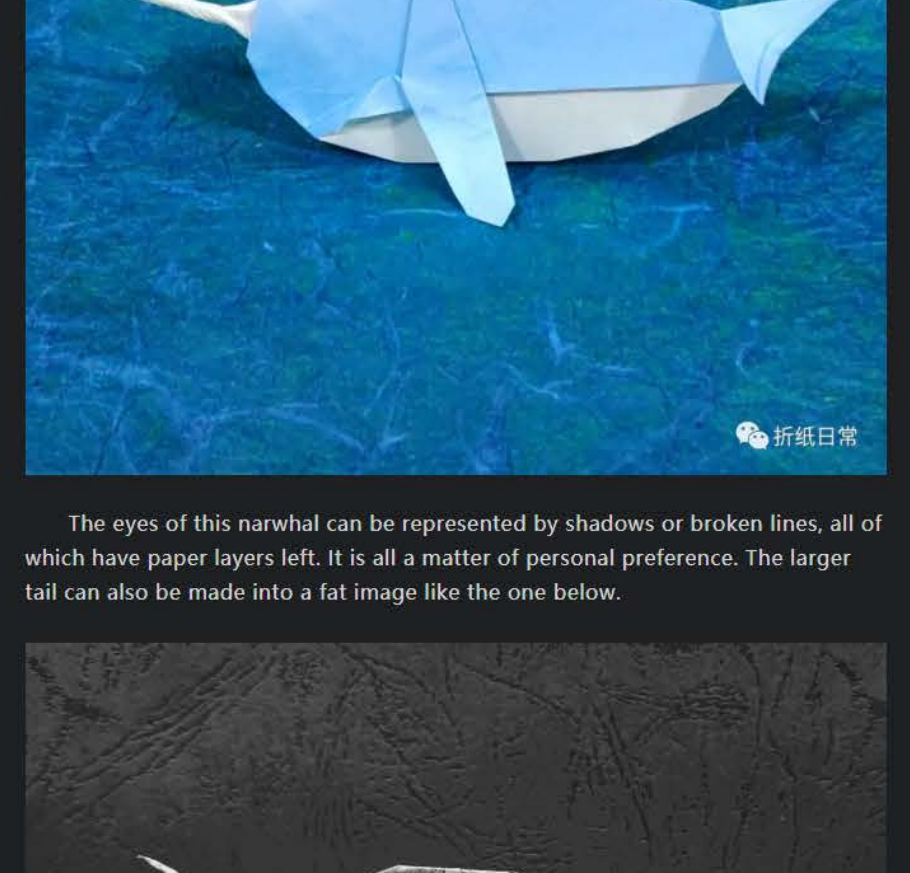




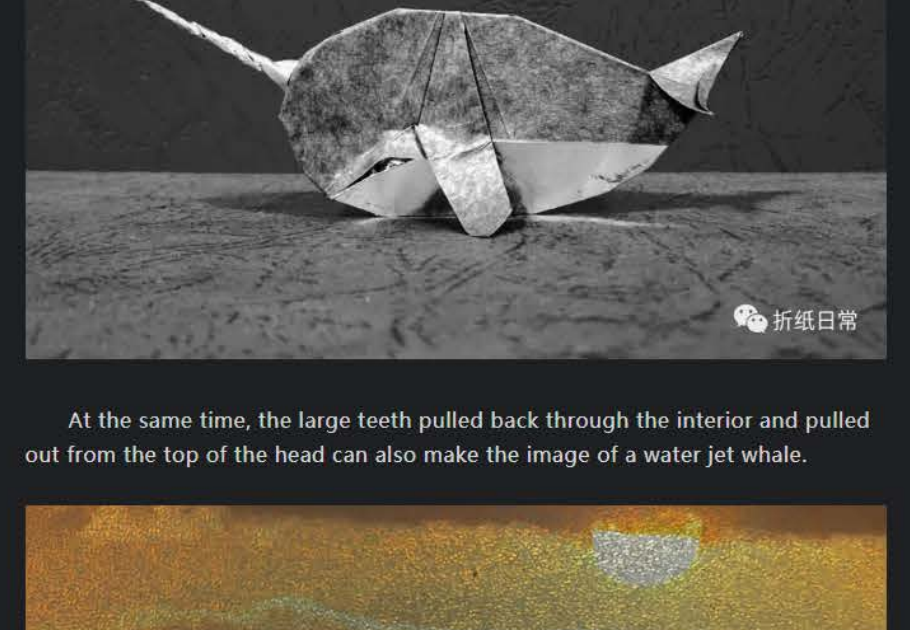




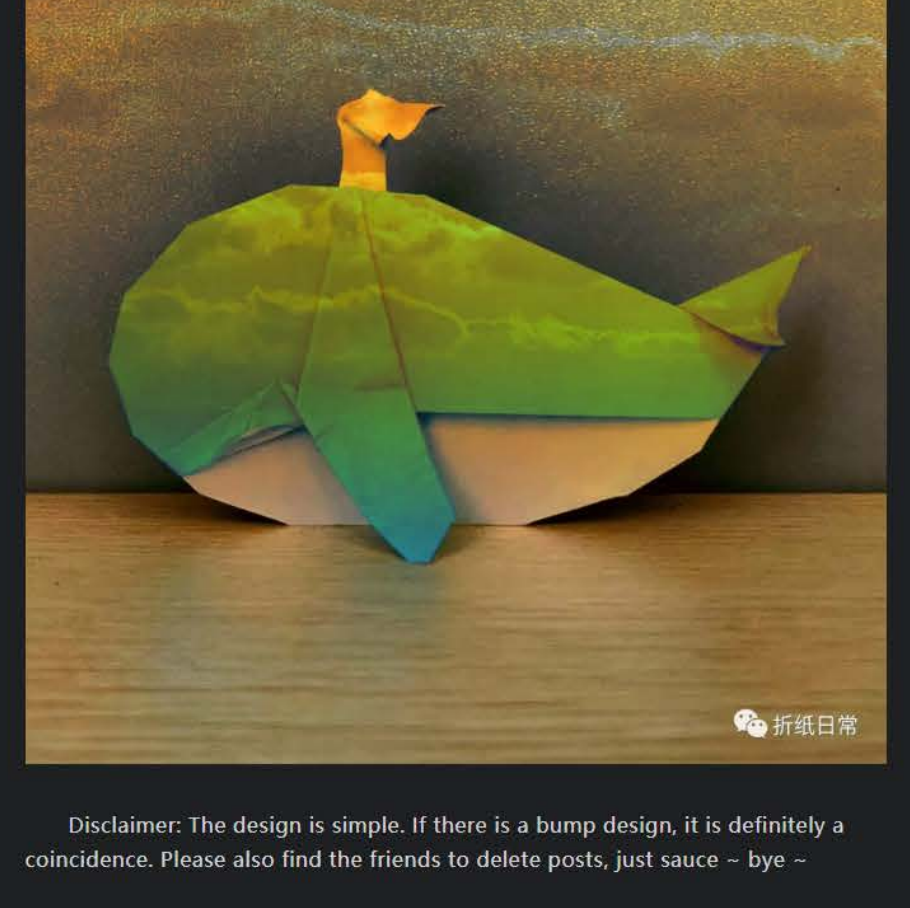




The eyes of this narwhal can be represented by shadows or broken lines, all of which have paper layers left. It is all a matter of personal preference. The larger tail can also be made into a fat image like the one below.



At the same time, the large teeth pulled back through the interior and pulled out from the top of the head can also make the image of a water jet whale.



Disclaimer: The design is simple. If there is a bump design, it is definitely a coincidence. Please also find the friends to delete posts, just sauce ~ bye ~
